OCTOBER
HALF TERM!

Half-Term Dates

Monday 26th October — Friday 29th October 2021

HALF TERM!

A Huge Thank You To Parents/Carers

It has been wonderful to see the school returning to some sense of normality this term, following the disruption over the past two years. Support and cooperation from parents/carers with regards to testing and isolating when necessary has been a huge part of that; as a result of your efforts, we have been able to keep the number of positive cases low compared to many other schools and have not had to close any bubbles or implement the contingency plan (i.e. a return to strict class bubbles, facemasks, etc.).

Let's continue to work together next half term to keep the school running at it's best for the children.

Have a lovely half term break!

- Paul Murphy

Black History Month

At Lancs we have celebrated Black History Month by exploring Black writers. Our Black History-a-day slides have celebrated a different writer a day, poets, authors, screen writers and song writers.

We have also explored the national Black History theme of Proud To Be Me. The children have discussed what makes them proud of themselves and produced amazing self-portraits.

At Lancs we are committed to delivering a diverse curriculum that reflects our wonderful community.

We celebrate Black History throughout the year, through all subjects and review our curriculum to ensure we do not ignore achievements or misrepresent.

Your Black History Month home learning task is to write! Write a story, create a picture book, write a short story, write a song, write a play or write graphic novel (comic), write a poem, write a review of a book, sports or video game.

Revisiting the Values Families

This week it's your chance to re-connect with the Respect Family...

Ronnie's Parents – The Respect Family

Ronnie lives with his two mums and they bring him to Lancasterian Primary School because they want him to understand and show respect.

Ronnie's mums care about other people's feelings so they interact positively with other parents/carers from all backgrounds and never approach other peoples' children directly if a problem arises at school; instead, they speak to school staff to work out a solution together. Even when they need to have discussions with staff on a difficult topic they are brave and always have calm conversations.

Ronnie's parents understand that they may not always agree with the way the school does things. Their ears twitch as they listen to discover all the facts before responding. They politely raise questions with school leadership if necessary and remember 'Manners Matter'.

They are patient in how they act. They follow the school's expectations for parents/carers on the school premises, for example giving staff time and space to safely dismiss children at the end of the day. They want to help keep Ronnie and his classmates safe, happy and learning well.

Ronnie's parents always remember to share their praise balloon with Ronnie when he follows the school golden rules and values and will challenge him when he doesn't.
