What Parents Need To Know About Social Media Scams

A free online safety guide on social media scams.

On any social media platform, you'll often come across links to genuine-looking websites. They might include an exclusive offer for one of your favourite shops or invite you to complete a quiz in return for a particular reward. In some cases, clicking on these links takes you to a fake website where you are asked to provide your personal details. The whole enterprise is a ploy to capture sensitive details, such as your email address and password, which the scammers then exploit at your expense.

In the guide, you'll find tips on a number of potential risks such as phishing scams, untrustworthy URLs and 'payment first' scams.

Leila's Parents — The Lifelong Learning Family

Leila's Parents — The Lifelong Learning Family

Leila lives with her mum and step dad and they bring Leila to Lancasterian Primary School because they want her to see learning as a journey that never ends.

Just like Leila, her parents' wings are always evolving as they continue to discover the world around them. They take part in adult learning opportunities at the school as often as they can to increase their knowledge and enjoy sharing the things they learn with Leila. Her dad grew up in Turkey and her mum grew up in Jamaica and they love to share their cultures with Leila as she learns. All these ideas makes the whole families' wings grow stronger.

School is important to Leila and her family. They enjoy talking about what Leila has learnt every day and get involved in her home learning. Leila's parents attend parents/carers evenings to find out more about Leila's learning journey and love the 'bring-a-parent' mornings. All these experiences are celebrated in the rich tapestry of their wing patterns as they learn together.

They understand that they have an essential part to play in Leila's learning and share precious moments with her reading books and encouraging her to read independently as her skills grow. They enjoy discovering museums, exploring London and venturing into the countryside to learn and have lots of fun together.

Leila is developing her own career toolkit powered by her curiosity and ideas. Her parents discuss her future career ideas with her and encourage her to keep an open mind. They talk with her about the importance of doing something she cares about and share their own experiences of work. This helps Leila's toolkit grow deeper and fuels her to investigate widely.

Leila's parents always remember to share their praise balloon with her when she wants to learn more and will challenge her when she rejects learning opportunities.
